TO HAVE LYCEUM AGAIN NEXT YEAR

OXFORD CLASS TO BRING ANOTHER ENTERTAINMENT SERIES

MAUD BOOTH TO COME

Each of Five Members Well Recommended—Conclusion of Series For This Season, March 29

Maryville will have a lyceum again next winter, it was decided this morning at a meeting of a committee of the Oxford Class, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, taught by E. M. Houchens. The Oxford Class had charge of the lyceum that was given this year. The committee is composed of Harold Houchens, chairman; John Price, Jr., corresponding secretary, and Garland N. White, publicity. The committee met this morning with Mr. Houchens and a representative of the Redpath-Horner Lyceum Bureau.

The talent for next year is especially good, according to announcements made today by Mr. White. One of the leaders is Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, said to be the most able woman orator in America. She does extensive work among the prisons and the prisoners and ex-convicts and is known as "Little Mother of Prisoners." She has worked all over the United States and has given much time to her subject.

Anther of the numbers is "The Bubble," a three-act comedy drama by Edward Locke. It has four characters and the company is to be organized and coached by William J. Keighley, who has appeared in Maryville on lyceum numbers.

Everett Kemp, monologist, known as the "Man With a Million Laughs," who reads "Oaks," "Music," "If I Were King," and "That Printer of Udells," will be one of the numbers.

The Barkley entertainers, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Barkley, will appear for one of the numbers in one-act plays, songologues, character sketches and novelty pictures.

The Maitland Entertainers company will be the other number. It will be composed of a trio of male voices. The members of the trio are: J. W. Huffman, second tenor, Thomas Baldridge, first tenor and Raymond Sherman, baritone. They will also carry various musical instruments with them.

Mrs. Booth was decided on as one of the numbers because of a special request of the Twentieth Century Club.

The members of the class feel that the financial success of the venture for next year is assured, since they have reason to believe that it will be better supported than it was this year. Each of the members of the class guarantee to sell ten of the tickets. There are about twenty members in the class.

The concluding number of the lyceum for this year will be given here March 29. This is an extra number and will be given because of a poor number that was given in the fall. The season tickets will be good for the number March 29.

COOPER OFFERED PROBLEM SOLUTION

TROUBLE DUE TO FREEDOM AND LACK OF DICIPLINE

WANT COMMUNITY HOUSE

Believes Could Empty Evil Places With Proper Building and Program —Upholds New Ideals For Young

"Can the dance be destroyed? I speak for myself and I do not think that it can. I have no hope of elimination of the dance as such."

This is a statement made by the Rev. J. A. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist church, in a sermon yesterday evening on "What Shall We do With Our Young People?" Mr. Cooper made it clear, however, that he was heart and soul against the modern dance, but that dancing is a matter of rhythm. It has been practiced throughout the ages and will continue to be practiced. Mr. Cooper said that there are other evils that are doing more to harm the young people of today than the dance does. He said that the problems today are largely due to freedom which carries with it a lack of discipline.

"My sermon tonight," said Mr. Cooper in the beginning, "will not be on the dance. I preached a sermon from this pulpit on the dance six months ago and do not intend to preach another on it. I do not believe in the modern dance and I want you all to understand that. But what I want to do is to suggest some modern amusement to take the place of it. If I could take away the modern dance with my breath, why the next time I preach I would destroy it. The dance has its evils, but I do not say that all of those who dance either the modern or old-fashioned dances see evil in them. But if I could I would do away with them all. I should like to stop all forms of contact dancing.

"It is all right to speak against evil from the pulpit if you have or have not a solution for it, but it is better to have a solution. I believe in substituting the better for the worse and the better for the worse and the better for the worse until you finally get somewhere.

"But bad as I think the modern dance is, I believe that there is an evil in our country that is worse and that is the motion picture show. Still, I would not do away with it as I would with the dance, if I could, for I think that the motion picture has the greatest possibility for good of anything that has been originated in the past 50 years.

"By saying what I do about the motion picture shows I do not mean to blame the men who bring them to our towns. They have great problems in getting the proper kinds of pictures. It is not possible for them to get the proper kind all the time for they are not to be had. If a manager succeeds in getting two wholesome pictures a week he is doing well. But nine out of ten of the picture shows that we see today are vicious. They have in them things that would have brought blushes to the faces of the people twenty or thirty years ago. Our children learn things at the shows today that people did not used to know in some cases at forty years of age. Nine out of ten of the complete stories of the motion picture shows that you see today could not be told at the family table.

"My method would not be to fight out the picture show but to get the right kind of shows in the place of the kind we now have. I would give a picture show and I would get such pictures as the "Tale of Two Cities," "Les Miserables," and some other of the best novels. I would have these pictures censored by a board from the town and have them all subject to the approval of this board.

"You may think that people will not go to the good things, but I tell you this is not the case. I watched it in the American army. The men always appreciated more the good things than they did the low down and vile. They would smile and perhaps laugh about the latter, but it was the really worthwhile things that they enjoyed most.

"I would have a community house here for the young people. I would have game tables there. I would have people in charge who were willing to play with the young people and willing to enter into their sports and games. I would have all the things there that are interesting and uplifting to the young people. A half dozen rich men in this town could provide such a building or the town could vote bonds for it. You give me such a building and a chance to carry out such a program and I will

TWO MOVIE ACTORS START ANOTHER SCANDAL

Were Involved This Morning in Kidnapping of Young Woman At Week-End Resort

Los Angeles, Feb. 6—(Copyrighted) A new revolting scandal developed this morning when the residents of Horseshoe Canyon, the location of numerous week-end bungalows, reported the kidnapping of a young woman named Dorothy by a party of drug maddened men. She was seen running down the Canyon, her clothing in shreds sobbing. She said she had been drugged and had her clothing torn off. While residents telephoned the police, others aided the girl. An automobile containing three men and two well known film actors, snatched the girl off.

STATE AUDITOR READY TO GO TO MAT

HACKMANN SAYS BOOKS OF HIS OFFICE ARE OPEN.

HE ADMITS AND EXPLAINS

Hackmann's Explanation of Extra Fees not Satisfactory to Gover. nor Hyde.

Jefferson City, Feb. 6—Governor Hyde directed Attorney General Barrett to investigate charges that State Auditor Hackmann improperly charged the counties for stenographic work.

Governor Hyde declined to make a formal statement but said "nobody will be happier, personally, than myself if Auditor Hackmann should prove himself innocent. I have no controversy with him. I am simply doing my duty as I see it."

Republican politicans are divided, some pointing out that none of the counties that paid bills for stenographic work complained.

Jefferson City, Feb. 6. — George E. Hackmann, state auditor, whose office Governor Hyde has requested Attorney General Barrett to investigate because of alleged irregular charges in connection with county audits, in a statement declared he is ready "to go the mat with the governor or anyone else who desires to investigate my office."

"My books and records are open to the public," said Hackmann. "They always have been and always will be so long as I am a state officer."

The alleged irregularities include the collection of $1,179.30 from counties audited by the state auditor, George E. Hackmann; the collection of fees from brokers registering bonds with the state; assessment of employees for his personal campaign expenses; collection of a commission on bonds of employees, required to be placed through him.

Hackmann Admits and Explains.

Hackmann has been quoted as admitting the addition of "stenographers' fees" to accounts filed by his auditors against counties after the accounts had been sworn to by the auditors working under Hackmann. His explanation is that $40 a month of the additions went to increase the salary of a negro janitor in his office and the remainder went to three employees in his office.

Hackmann has admitted the collection of fees from brokers registering bonds, explaining that he did the registering at St. Louis and Kansas City to save the firms the expense and trouble of forwarding the bonds to Jefferson City. The amounts in these cases range from $25 to $100, with the auditor receiving expense money from the state for some of the trips where he transacted other state business.

Hackmann has denied assessing employees and denies receiving a commission of employees' bonds paid through him.

Lincoln University "Deal" in It.

Interest here is keen as to whether the Lincoln university "deal" will be unraveled in this investigation.

At the time eighteen acres of land were sold to Lincoln Institute by W. H. Ruwart of this city for $27,000, Governor Hyde addressed an official notice to the state auditor to withhold payment of this sum, as he had reason to believe that the land was not worth the money. The auditor's chief clerk, William Kruz, however, approved the account and the money was paid by the state treasurer before Governor Hyde knew what had been done. The governor was greatly incensed when he learned the fact, and told the state auditor he would endeavor to have suit for the entire amount filed against his official bond. The

PROOF OF WRONG WILL KILL DANCE

SNODGRASS SAYS YOUNG PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE BEINGS.

HAVE RIGHT TO ASK WHY

Program for Young Must be One That Will Appeal to the Heroic in Them.

"My plan is to approach our young people as responsible human beings, with heads and hearts as well as heels, and say to them, the modern dance is wrong and you cannot be a consistant Christian and indulge in it, and because it is wrong, I want you to cut it out and work with me and the church in building a social program that is worth while. After you furnish the proof that the dance is wrong, the sober-minded youth of our land will quit it, and not until then."

This statement was made by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the Christian Church last night in making an announcement for his services for next Sunday evening, when he will speak further along the line of problems of the young people.

"The American youth have a right to ask why they should give up one form of amusement to accept another," sand Mr. Snodgrass. "This is in keeping with the true Yankee spirit. You say, we can solve the problem by substitution only. I will say that when that boy asks 'Why give up the dance to accept the other form of amusement,' we have to give a reasonable answer.

"Again, I will say that any program for our young people must be one that will appeal to the heroic in them. Such a policy as the following will not do: 'Now Johnie I know the dance is wrong, but I don't want to tell you that because you might get mad and not come back to hear me preach. You could do lots of things that would be worse than dancing, but I would be glad if you would quit that and accept this other form of amusement. I was just thinking that I might be able to drive the dance out of your life by putting some of these other things in and maybe you wouldn't realize it at all.' I ask would such silly twiddle-twaddle as that have appealed to the American youth of fifty years ago? I answer no, and it will not appeal to the heroic in our youth today.

"When we are reminded of the effect of the preaching of the apostles in that early day, when they were spoken of with bated breath as, these turned the world upside down, we cannot help crying of many of the preachers of this day, as Cowper makes Alexander Selkirk say of the beasts of his island: 'Their tameness is shocking to me.' All great institutions are custodians of values they dare not put in jeopardy and these are jeopardized whenever the standards of that institution are lowered to pander to the sensual and contemptible in human society. To employ love like Christ's and such love only, will make the minister of God to cry out against the evils of his day and when he does it cannot be other than revolutionary.

"The church of today must be aggressive and when it is, it will be heroic. As another has said: 'Many people when they came into the church and put off the old man, they put on the old woman,' and have assumed an effiminate attitude that has no appeal to the world. Most churches of today are excessively timid. Dr. Coffin has said: 'Faint-heartedness is a perennial ecclesiastical vice; rarely does the church give a community intrepid leadership in the way of righteousness.

"Again our program must protect and maintain the safety and sanctity of the home. Our home life is being ruined these days. According to the social programs now, there is no opportunity for the family circle to be complete. I have scanned the dailies for last week in our city and I find social functions listed as follows: Monday there are five; Tuesday, seven; Wednesday, seven; Thursday, five; Friday ten and Saturday one. This does not count the various lodge meetings, picture shows, conferences, committee meetings, etc. How can you build a social program without first making some eliminations?

"A startling statement came to me recently in this statement: 'The Jew, Catholic, Socialist and Atheist are giving more time and thought to the training of their children, than the average Protestant church and home.' If that

PRESIDENT HARDING ADDRESSES ARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE

Five Treaties Were Signed This Morning —The Session Lasted One Hour and Five Minutes.

Secretary of State Hughes announced the Shantung treaty was signed Saturday. The other treaties were signed this morning, there being five in all. The session lasted one hour and five minutes. The Continental hall was packed.

President Harding, addressing the delegates, praised the work of the conference yet warned the world he expects the pledges made at Washington to be strictly observed. Indirectly replying to criticism that the conference has brought America into entangling foreign alliances he said "no intrique and no offense or defensive alliance have wrought your agreements but reasoning with each other to common understanding has made new relationships among the governments and peoples, new securities for peace and new opportunities for achievement and attending happiness."

Once, he said, he advocated armed preparedness but now believed better preparedness is in "public opinion against war."

TAKES CHANGE OF VENUE FROM JUDGE

CHARLES GROSS OF ATCHISON COUNTY FILES APPLICATION

BEFORE WOODS FEB. 13

After Judge Dawson Overruled a Continuance Motion, Application Was Filed

After Judge Dawson had refused to grant a continuance in the case of the State against Charles Gross, on a charge of grand larceny, the defendant filed an application for a change of venue from Judge Dawson. The application was granted and Judge L. B. Woods of Princeton was called in to try the case. The case was set for Monday, February 13. Judge Woods said he could be here at that time.

The defendant, Charles Gross, in his application for a continuance states that one of his witnesses, Dr. J. W. Holliday of Tarkio, was confined to his home in Tarkio by pleuisy. Judge Dawson overruled the application as it was not supported by a physician's statement.

In his application for a change of venue, Gross states "Judge Dawson will not afford him a fair and impartial trial in said cause on account of the bias and prejudice of the Judge. Defendant further says that the information leading to the belief set out above has come to his knowledge since the last hearing in this cause on January 31, on February 5 and 6."

Gross' application was supported by an affidavit from J. R. Miller and J. R. Duvall saying "the facts herein are true."

Many witnesses and spectators from Atchison County were in attendance in the court room this afternoon.

The cases of Earl Fox and Lee Gowdy on charges of grand larceny are set for Wednesday, February 8. The petit jurors were excused until that time.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

TESTS FOR 1,600 CATTLE IN COUNTY

275 WERE "PUT THROUGH" NEAR GRAHAM SATURDAY.

WORK PROGRESSES WELL

Dr. Eagle Advises Testing in Order That Spring Sales May be Most Successful.

Approximately 1,600 cattle were tested in the county during the month of January in the tuberculin tests that are being conducted in the county by Dr. T. J. Eagle, United States Veterinarian it was announced today. During the past week Dr. Eagle has been working in the vicinity of Skidmore, Maitland and Graham. Saturday he tested near Graham 275 head of cattle at three different farms. The cattle were brought in from about the neighborhood.

"Things are coming along nicely," said Dr. Eagle today. "The people who are interested in the work are visiting the places where we are giving the tests and they go back home and have everything planned and ready when we get to their places to make the tests.

Out of all the cattle that we have tested in the county we have found that only about 1 per cent of them show reaction to the test.

Test Helps In Sales

"I advise the farmers contemplating having sales to have their cattle tested. It will add to the value of their stock, as the purchaser can receive a health certificate and should the animals show reaction at a later date for the purchaser, he can receive indemnity for them. The law requires that when animals that have been purchased by the owner react to the test that he is not entitled to indemnity, unless there is a health certificate for the animal.

"The tests aid in the sales of the cattle the same as cholra voccination helps in the sale of hogs."

governor stated that he will bring this matter up with the attorney general. He has expressed the opinion that the land was not worth exceeding $10,000. Suit is now pending at the instance of the board of curators of Lincoln university to annul the sale.

"Overlooked a $27,000 Item."

"I have been told," the governor said "that the state auditor has made remarks to the effect that I had it in for him because he has closely watched the expense accounts brought to him by my appointees. I have complimented Mr. Hackmann many times for his seeming close scrutiny of all such accounts.

"I had noted how quickly he appeared to be able to detect an error of 30 cents in a long expense account, and felt that he was the right kind of an official in the right place until he overlooked a land deal of $27,000 for Lincoln Institute after I had served official notice on him not to audit the account."

Explanations Don't Satisfy Governor.

The governor discussed Hackmann's explanations of his collections on county audits.

"It matters not," the governor said, "to what use the auditor put the money, he had no right to collect it at all These audits are paid for by the counties, and the only legal charges that can be made include the per diem and expenses of the accounts. These items must be sworn to, and as I am told, they have been, and then the items for stenographer hire, and in one or more cases, small binding charges, added by the auditor, or through his direction.

"I am going to leave this entire matter in the hands of the attorney general, where it properly belongs. I feel it to be my duty to protect the people of the state from Republican as well as Democratic state officials who have violated plain provisions of law, and under no circumstances will I make fish out of one and fowl out of another."

empty all the places of evil in this town. I will put before the young people the things that are good for them and they will leave the things that are bad. I will eliminate by substitution.

"There is another thing which is having a great immoral effect upon the young people of today and that is the automobile. But I would not have Henry Ford stop making flivvers or do away with the automobile industry.

"There is a lot of automobile riding that there ought not to be. I cannot see how the parents can allow their daughters to go out auto riding as they do. I have seen things go on in motor cars standing at the pavement even that should not be allowed to go on.

"I would have people stay at home more than they do. I suppose that I will never be forgiven for saying this. The young people are away from home too much, but if they should stay at home their parents in many cases would not be there. Home is an important place. You cannot hope to raise children in the right way on the streets. No matter how good your streets may be, they are not as good as your home. I would build things in the home life that would keep the children off the street. We have gotten so that we do not know how to play with our children. It used to be considered improper for boys and girls to stop and converse on the street. Now they often congregate so that you cannot pass them on the sidewalk. We have the dance and other problems because the home is not conducted as it should be.

"I do not believe in scheduling outside events in the public schools or the colleges on week nights. The children should be at home. I do not mean, however, to criticise any one connected with the schools here. You have better schools than you deserve in many cases, in consideration of the support you give them. But when you can get only fifty persons out to hear a debate and 400 to see a basketball game on the same evening, there is something wrong. The basketball is all right. I believe in athletics. I like everything from the marble game to the golf game. No one in town enjoys athletics more than I, but we need something more than athletics alone.

"I believe in having the children at home getting their lessons on the first four nights of the week. Let them get out on Friday and Saturday evenings if they want to, but keep them in the home the school nights.

"People do not give up things because they are bad but they give them up because other things are better. If you cannot have the best, then take the best you can get, do not try to get along without anything. For four months during my period in the army I attended a dance two or three times a week. Why? I knew that it was impossible to eliminate it. I knew that the men would dance regardless or else go to some other kind of amusement that I considered worse. I thought it better to go to the dance and do what I could to make it a clean dance than to go off to my tent and sulk. So I went to the dance. Then no one resented my being there. If I saw things that I thought to be off color, I called attention to it.

"Goodness is not emptiness, it is fullness. One is good because of what he does do and not because of what he does not do. I would institute the ideal of Christian service throughout the country. How many parents here tonight have in the past week held up examples such as Wilson, Harding and Lloyd George before their children?"

The seating capacity of the church was all taken and all the available space in the rear of the building was filled with folding chairs. At this seventy-five to one hundred persons were turned away.

Mr. Cooper ended his sermon with the following poem by Edgar A. Guest:

The miser thinks it's living to be
hoarding up his gold,
The soldier thinks it's living to be doing something bold.
The sailor calls it living to be tossed upon the sea
And upon this very subject no two men of us agree.
But I hold to the opinion, as I walk
my way along,
That living's made of laughter and good fellowship and song.

Oh, the thing that I call living isn't gold or fame at all,
It's fellowship and sunshine and roses
by the wall.
It's evenings glad with music and the hearth's fire that's ablaze,
And the joys that come to mortals in a thousand different ways.
It's laughter and contentment and the struggle for a goal, It's everything that's needful in the shaping of a soul.

Don't Be Deceived By Size

Many housewives are now buying baking powder under false impressions—they think they are getting 16 oz. or a full pound when they are really only getting 12 oz.—3/4 of a pound.

In order to keep the price down to compete with other brands, some manufacturers have reduced the contents of their large cans. If you don't look at the label—don't know exactly what you are getting when you buy these brands, you are apt to be 4 oz. or 1/4 of a pound short.

To get 16 oz.—a full pound, when you want it, buy Calumet. It costs less—you use less. It is made in the world's largest Baking Powder factories.

Keep Calumet in mind—it is the money saving kind.

should not be true, it should at least challenge us upon this point. It is the duty of the parents to help the child to know God and the Bible in the home. How often is the family circle complete these days? What opportunity is being offered us in the home to maintain its sanctity?

"Discipline should be practiced in the home. I have known mothers who would criticise a school teacher because she, the teacher, could not discipline fifty boys, when the mother could not even discipline one in the home. Bad home government means bad school government. Respect and appreciation for law, is the need of the land. Lincoln says: 'No republic can long exist in peace and security without a deep and abiding respect for law.' We cannot emphasize the home life too much and no program must interfere with the home.

"We must never misinterpret the mission of the church. We stress social salvation today, and this is well, but even a good thing can be overdone. We should not think less in terms of social salvation but more in terms of personal salvation. It is good that Christian men and women should be interested in model tenements, public play houses, etc., but we must not neglect the individual in our zeal to help the crowd. If the individual trees are neglected what of the forest? The welfare of the whole depends absolutely upon the welfare of the unit. Our religion is a personal religion. If our social world is unChristian, it is because the persons within it are unChristian. 'If the fountain be pure the water will be pure.' The heart is the fountain and 'out of it are the issues of life.'

"The salvation of society comes back to the salvation of the individual. We are saved as individuals and not as masses or groups.

"This is the church's mission. If we mis-interpret it and spend our time, thought and effort on matters of less importance, the very foundations are endangered. Our social programs, amusements, etc., are only means to this great end, and to these I shall give my time in the next address."

Lowry's Letter

While Bill and the scribe were attending the Hardware and Implement Dealers' Convention at Kansas City a few days ago we picked up one of the finest lines of oil cook stoves we have ever seen. We have one in our east window now and would be glad to show the good features of it. It heats more quickly than others and over a greater surface. Fine for cooking a big steak.

Earl Cook is the owner of a new farm wagon, but he didn't tell us that he would loan it. You may have one too, if you wish.

Fred Wallace can drive his car in safety with his new chains. Remember we have them in all sizes.

Davis Bros. are making their windmill pump the water from two wells by the use of triangles. If you need any information about water equipment we can furnish it.

J. E. Crawford is equipping his car with the Alemite oiling system. It stops the squeaks in the springs and makes the oiling job a pleasure.

Mr. Atkinson, who recently joined the faculty at the State Teachers College is eating meals cooked on an oil stove purchased here. When you don't want to start a fire in the range, a match to the wick makes a quick heat.

The Samson two-row lister cultivator that Alfred Jones took home with him will eliminate the weeds, rapidly, in the good old summer time.

A LIVE COON AT SKIDMORE.

Party of Men "Herded" One to Streets of Town.

A party of men roaming through the woods a mile and a half southeast of Skidmore yesterday afternoon discovered a raccoon. One of the party climbed a tree and punched him out of his hole, thirty feet from the ground. He jumped from it and was captured by those on the ground. The men pinned him down with forked sticks as he ran for the river, nearby, and then tied his legs. They then started for Skidmore but were destined to have trouble. Three times on the way Mr. Coon bit the cords that bound his legs, in two and was free again. Three times the captors succeeded in preventing him from getting away. The coon was exhibited on the streets and later placed in a tank at the rear of the Manchester & Dodds hardware store. It was said that the coon was to be turned loose this morning.

The members of the party were Geo. Manchester, John Ashbrook, Howard Money, Irvin Morehead, Allen Tracy and Charles Barrett, all of Skidmore, and Ellwood Barrett of Maryville.

Our Baby Lens

Our baby lens is not a baby lens on account of its size. In fact it is the largest lens we have. We call it our baby lens because we bought it especially for babies pictures.

We can take the baby's pictures in your own home, in home surroundings. We take them with such short exposures. (One-fifth or one-half of a second), that we get the natural expressions.

Another thing, we do no retouching which sometimes takes away something of the natural likeness. That's what makes our portraits "look like you."

If you do not know the kind of work we are doing we invite you to come to the BEE HIVE SHOE STORE and see it.

TO HAVE LYCEUM AGAIN NEXT YEAR

OXFORD CLASS TO BRING ANOTHER ENTERTAINMENT SERIES

MAUD BOOTH TO COME

Each of Five Members Well Recommended—Conclusion of Series For This Season, March 29

Maryville will have a lyceum again next winter, it was decided this morning at a meeting of a committee of the Oxford Class, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, taught by E. M. Houchens. The Oxford Class had charge of the lyceum that was given this year. The committee is composed of Harold Houchens, chairman; John Price, Jr., corresponding secretary, and Garland N. White, publicity. The committee met this morning with Mr. Houchens and a representative of the Redpath-Horner Lyceum Bureau.

The talent for next year is especially good, according to announcements made today by Mr. White. One of the leaders is Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, said to be the most able woman orator in America. She does extensive work among the prisons and the prisoners and ex-convicts and is known as "Little Mother of Prisoners." She has worked all over the United States and has given much time to her subject.

Anther of the numbers is "The Bubble," a three-act comedy drama by Edward Locke. It has four characters and the company is to be organized and coached by William J. Keighley, who has appeared in Maryville on lyceum numbers.

Everett Kemp, monologist, known as the "Man With a Million Laughs," who reads "Oaks," "Music," "If I Were King," and "That Printer of Udells," will be one of the numbers.

The Barkley entertainers, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Barkley, will appear for one of the numbers in one-act plays, songologues, character sketches and novelty pictures.

The Maitland Entertainers company will be the other number. It will be composed of a trio of male voices. The members of the trio are: J. W. Huffman, second tenor, Thomas Baldridge, first tenor and Raymond Sherman, baritone. They will also carry various musical instruments with them.

Mrs. Booth was decided on as one of the numbers because of a special request of the Twentieth Century Club.

The members of the class feel that the financial success of the venture for next year is assured, since they have reason to believe that it will be better supported than it was this year. Each of the members of the class guarantee to sell ten of the tickets. There are about twenty members in the class.

The concluding number of the lyceum for this year will be given here March 29. This is an extra number and will be given because of a poor number that was given in the fall. The season tickets will be good for the number March 29.

COOPER OFFERED PROBLEM SOLUTION

TROUBLE DUE TO FREEDOM AND LACK OF DICIPLINE

WANT COMMUNITY HOUSE

Believes Could Empty Evil Places With Proper Building and Program —Upholds New Ideals For Young

"Can the dance be destroyed? I speak for myself and I do not think that it can. I have no hope of elimination of the dance as such."

This is a statement made by the Rev. J. A. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist church, in a sermon yesterday evening on "What Shall We do With Our Young People?" Mr. Cooper made it clear, however, that he was heart and soul against the modern dance, but that dancing is a matter of rhythm. It has been practiced throughout the ages and will continue to be practiced. Mr. Cooper said that there are other evils that are doing more to harm the young people of today than the dance does. He said that the problems today are largely due to freedom which carries with it a lack of discipline.

"My sermon tonight," said Mr. Cooper in the beginning, "will not be on the dance. I preached a sermon from this pulpit on the dance six months ago and do not intend to preach another on it. I do not believe in the modern dance and I want you all to understand that. But what I want to do is to suggest some modern amusement to take the place of it. If I could take away the modern dance with my breath, why the next time I preach I would destroy it. The dance has its evils, but I do not say that all of those who dance either the modern or old-fashioned dances see evil in them. But if I could I would do away with them all. I should like to stop all forms of contact dancing.

"It is all right to speak against evil from the pulpit if you have or have not a solution for it, but it is better to have a solution. I believe in substituting the better for the worse and the better for the worse and the better for the worse until you finally get somewhere.

"But bad as I think the modern dance is, I believe that there is an evil in our country that is worse and that is the motion picture show. Still, I would not do away with it as I would with the dance, if I could, for I think that the motion picture has the greatest possibility for good of anything that has been originated in the past 50 years.

"By saying what I do about the motion picture shows I do not mean to blame the men who bring them to our towns. They have great problems in getting the proper kinds of pictures. It is not possible for them to get the proper kind all the time for they are not to be had. If a manager succeeds in getting two wholesome pictures a week he is doing well. But nine out of ten of the picture shows that we see today are vicious. They have in them things that would have brought blushes to the faces of the people twenty or thirty years ago. Our children learn things at the shows today that people did not used to know in some cases at forty years of age. Nine out of ten of the complete stories of the motion picture shows that you see today could not be told at the family table.

"My method would not be to fight out the picture show but to get the right kind of shows in the place of the kind we now have. I would give a picture show and I would get such pictures as the "Tale of Two Cities," "Les Miserables," and some other of the best novels. I would have these pictures censored by a board from the town and have them all subject to the approval of this board.

"You may think that people will not go to the good things, but I tell you this is not the case. I watched it in the American army. The men always appreciated more the good things than they did the low down and vile. They would smile and perhaps laugh about the latter, but it was the really worthwhile things that they enjoyed most.

"I would have a community house here for the young people. I would have game tables there. I would have people in charge who were willing to play with the young people and willing to enter into their sports and games. I would have all the things there that are interesting and uplifting to the young people. A half dozen rich men in this town could provide such a building or the town could vote bonds for it. You give me such a building and a chance to carry out such a program and I will

Were Involved This Morning in Kidnapping of Young Woman At Week-End Resort

Los Angeles, Feb. 6—(Copyrighted) A new revolting scandal developed this morning when the residents of Horseshoe Canyon, the location of numerous week-end bungalows, reported the kidnapping of a young woman named Dorothy by a party of drug maddened men. She was seen running down the Canyon, her clothing in shreds, sobbing. She said she had been drugged and had her clothing torn off. While residents telephoned the police, others aided the girl. An automobile containing three men and two well known film actors, snatched the girl off.

STATE AUDITOR READY TO GO TO MAT

HACKMANN SAYS BOOKS OF HIS OFFICE ARE OPEN.

HE ADMITS AND EXPLAINS

Hackmann's Explanation of Extra Fees not Satisfactory to Gover. nor Hyde.

Jefferson City, Feb. 6—Governor Hyde directed Attorney General Barrett to investigate charges that State Auditor Hackmann improperly charged the counties for stenographic work.

Governor Hyde declined to make a formal statement but said "nobody will be happier, personally, than myself if Auditor Hackmann should prove himself innocent. I have no controversy with him. I am simply doing my duty as I see it."

Republican politicans are divided, some pointing out that none of the counties that paid bills for stenographic work complained.

Jefferson City, Feb. 6. — George E. Hackmann, state auditor, whose office Governor Hyde has requested Attorney General Barrett to investigate because of alleged irregular charges in connection with county audits, in a statement declared he is ready "to go the mat with the governor or anyone else who desires to investigate my office."

"My books and records are open to the public," said Hackmann. "They always have been and always will be so long as I am a state officer."

The alleged irregularities include the collection of $1,179.30 from counties audited by the state auditor, George E. Hackmann; the collection of fees from brokers registering bonds with the state; assessment of employees for his personal campaign expenses; collection of a commission on bonds of employees, required to be placed through him.

Hackmann Admits and Explains.

Hackmann has been quoted as admitting the addition of "stenographers' fees" to accounts filed by his auditors against counties after the accounts had been sworn to by the auditors working under Hackmann. His explanation is that $40 a month of the additions went to inecrease the salary of a negro janitor in his office and the remainder went to three employees in his office.

Hackmann has admitted the collection of fees from brokers registering bonds, explaining that he did the registering at St. Louis and Kansas City to save the firms the expense and trouble of forwarding the bonds to Jefferson City. The amounts in these cases range from $25 to $100, with the auditor receiving expense money from the state for some of the trips where he transacted other state business.

Hackmann has denied assessing employees and denies receiving a commission of employees' bonds paid through him.

Lincoln University "Deal" in It.

Interest here is keen as to whether the Lincoln university "deal" will be unraveled in this investigation.

At the time eighteen acres of land were sold to Lincoln Institute by W. H. Ruwart of this city for $27,000, Governor Hyde addressed an official notice to the state auditor to withhold payment of this sum, as he had reason to believe that the land was not worth the money. The auditor's chief clerk, William Kruz, however, approved the account and the money was paid by the state treasurer before Governor Hyde knew what had been done. The governor was greatly incensed when he learned the fact, and told the state auditor he would endeavor to have suit for the entire amount filed against his official bond. The

SNODGRASS SAYS YOUNG PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE BEINGS.

HAVE RIGHT TO ASK WHY

Program for Young Must be One That Will Appeal to the Heroic in Them.

"My plan is to approach our young people as responsible human beings, with heads and hearts as well as heels, and say to them, the modern dance is wrong and you cannot be a consistant Christian and indulge in it, and because it is wrong, I want you to cut it out and work with me and the church in building a social program that is worth while. After you furnish the proof that the dance is wrong, the sober-minded youth of our land will quit it, and not until then."

This statement was made by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the Christian Church last night in making an announcement for his services for next Sunday evening, when he will speak further along the line of problems of the young people.

"The American youth have a right to ask why they should give up one form of amusement to accept another," sand Mr. Snodgrass. "This is in keeping with the true Yankee spirit. You say, we can solve the problem by substitution only. I will say that when that boy asks 'Why give up the dance to accept the other form of amusement,' we have to give a reasonable answer.

"Again, I will say that any program for our young people must be one that will appeal to the heroic in them. Such a policy as the following will not do: 'Now Johnie I know the dance is wrong, but I don't want to tell you that because you might get mad and not come back to hear me preach. You could do lots of things that would be worse than dancing, but I would be glad if you would quit that and accept this other form of amusement. I was just thinking that I might be able to drive the dance out of your life by putting some of these other things in and maybe you wouldn't realize it at all.' I ask would such silly twiddle-twaddle as that have appealed to the American youth of fifty years ago? I answer no, and it will not appeal to the heroic in our youth today.

"When we are reminded of the effect of the preaching of the apostles in that early day, when they were spoken of with bated breath as, these turned the world upside down, we cannot help crying of many of the preachers of this day, as Cowper makes Alexander Selkirk say of the beasts of his island: 'Their tameness is shocking to me.' All great institutions are custodians of values they dare not put in jeopardy and these are jeopardized whenever the standards of that institution are lowered to pander to the sensual and contemptible in human society. To employ love like Christ's and such love only, will make the minister of God to cry out against the evils of his day and when he does it cannot be other than revolutionary.

"The church of today must be aggressive and when it is, it will be heroic. As another has said: 'Many people when they came into the church and put off the old man, they put on the old woman,' and have assumed an effiminate attitude that has no appeal to the world. Most churches of today are excessively timid. Dr. Coffin has said: 'Faint-heartedness is a perennial ecclesiastical vice; rarely does the church give a community intrepid leadership in the way of righteousness.

"Again our program must protect and maintain the safety and sanctity of the home. Our home life is being ruined these days. According to the social programs now, there is no opportunity for the family circle to be complete. I have scanned the dailies for last week in our city and I find social functions listed as follows: Monday there are five; Tuesday, seven; Wednesday, seven; Thursday, five; Friday ten and Saturday one. This does not count the various lodge meetings, picture shows, conferences, committee meetings, etc. How can you build a social program without first making some eliminations?

"A startling statement came to me recently in this statement: 'The Jew, Catholic, Socialist and Atheist are giving more time and thought to the training of their children, than the average Protestant church and home.' If that

EXPECTS PLEDGES TO BE OBSERVED

PRESIDENT HARDING ADDRESSES ARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE

Five Treaties Were Signed This Morning —The Session Lasted One Hour and Five Minutes.

Washington, Feb. 6—The armament conference adjourned sine die at 11:15 o'clock this morning.

Secretary of State Hughes announced the Shantung treaty was signed Saturday. The other treaties were signed this morning, there being five in all. The session lasted one hour and five minutes. The Continental hall was packed.

President Harding, addressing the delegates, praised the work of the conference yet warned the world he expects the pledges made at Washington to be strictly observed. Indirectly replying to criticism that the conference has brought America into entangling foreign alliances he said "no intrique and no offense or defensive alliance have wrought your agreements but reasoning with each other to common understanding has made new relationships among the governments and peoples, new securities for peace and new opportunities for achievement and attending happiness."

Once, he said, he advocated armed preparedness but now believed better preparedness is in "public opinion against war."

TAKES CHANGE OF VENUE FROM JUDGE

BEFORE WOODS FEB. 13

After Judge Dawson Overruled a Continuance Motion, Application Was Filed

After Judge Dawson had refused to grant a continuance in the case of the State against Charles Gross, on a charge of grand larceny, the defendant filed an application for a change of venue from Judge Dawson. The application was granted and Judge L. B. Woods of Princeton was called in to try the case. The case was set for Monday, February 13. Judge Woods said he could be here at that time.

The defendant, Charles Gross, in his application for a continuance states that one of his witnesses, Dr. J. W. Holliday of Tarkio, was confined to his home in Tarkio by pleuisy. Judge Dawson overruled the application as it was not supported by a physician's statement.

In his application for a change of venue, Gross states "Judge Dawson will not afford him a fair and impartial trial in said cause on account of the bias and prejudice of the Judge. Defendant further says that the information leading to the belief set out above has come to his knowledge since the last hearing in this cause on January 31, on February 5 and 6."

Gross' application was supported by an affidavit from J. R. Miller and J. R. Duvall saying "the facts herein are true."

Many witnesses and spectators from Atchison County were in attendance in the court room this afternoon.

The cases of Earl Fox and Lee Gowdy on charges of grand larceny are set for Wednesday, February 8. The petit jurors were excused until that time.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

TESTS FOR 1,600 CATTLE IN COUNTY

275 WERE "PUT THROUGH" NEAR GRAHAM SATURDAY.

WORK PROGRESSES WELL

Dr. Eagle Advises Testing in Order That Spring Sales May be Most Successful.

Approximately 1,600 cattle were tested in the county during the month of January in the tuberculin tests that are being conducted in the county by Dr. T. J. Eagle, United States Veterinarian it was announced today. During the past week Dr. Eagle has been working in the vicinity of Skidmore, Maitland and Graham. Saturday he tested near Graham 275 head of cattle at three different farms. The cattle were brought in from about the neighborhood.

"Things are coming along nicely," said Dr. Eagle today. "The people who are interested in the work are visiting the places where we are giving the tests and they go back home and have everything planned and ready when we get to their places to make the tests.

Out of all the cattle that we have tested in the county we have found that only about 1 per cent of them show reaction to the test.

Test Helps In Sales

"I advise the farmers contemplating having sales to have their cattle tested. It will add to the value of their stock, as the purchaser can receive a health certificate and should the animals show reaction at a later date for the purchaser, he can receive indemnity for them. The law requires that when animals that have been purchased by the owner react to the test that he is not entitled to indemnity, unless there is a health certificate for the animal.

"The tests aid in the sales of the cattle the same as cholra voccination helps in the sale of hogs."

governor stated that he will bring this matter up with the attorney general. He has expressed the opinion that the land was not worth exceeding $10,000. Suit is now pending at the instance of the board of curators of Lincoln university to annul the sale.

"Overlooked a $27,000 Item."

"I have been told," the governor said "that the state auditor has made remarks to the effect that I had it in for him because he has closely watched the expense accounts brought to him by my appointees. I have complimented Mr. Hackmann many times for his seeming close scrutiny of all such accounts.

"I had noted how quickly he appeared to be able to detect an error of 30 cents in a long expense account, and felt that he was the right kind of an official in the right place until he overlooked a land deal of $27,000 for Lincoln Institute after I had served official notice on him not to audit the account."

Explanations Don't Satisfy Governor.

The governor discussed Hackmann's explanations of his collections on county audits.

"It matters not," the governor said, "to what use the auditor put the money, he had no right to collect it at all These audits are paid for by the counties, and the only legal charges that can be made include the per diem and expenses of the accounts. These items must be sworn to, and as I am told, they have been, and then the items for stenographer hire, and in one or more cases, small binding charges, added by the auditor, or through his direction.

"I am going to leave this entire matter in the hands of the attorney general, where it properly belongs. I feel it to be my duty to protect the people of the state from Republican as well as Democratic state officials who have violated plain provisions of law, and under no circumstances will I make fish out of one and fowl out of another."

empty all the places of evil in this town. I will put before the young people the things that are good for them and they will leave the things that are bad. I will eliminate by substitution.

"There is another thing which is having a great immoral effect upon the young people of today and that is the automobile. But I would not have Henry Ford stop making flivvers or do away with the automobile industry.

"There is a lot of automobile riding that there ought not to be. I cannot see how the parents can allow their daughters to go out auto riding as they do. I have seen things go on in motor cars standing at the pavement even that should not be allowed to go on.

"I would have people stay at home more than they do. I suppose that I will never be forgiven for saying this. The young people are away from home too much, but if they should stay at home their parents in many cases would not be there. Home is an important place. You cannot hope to raise children in the right way on the streets. No matter how good your streets may be, they are not as good as your home. I would build things in the home life that would keep the children off the street. We have gotten so that we do not know how to play with our children. It used to be considered improper for boys and girls to stop and converse on the street. Now they often congregate so that you cannot pass them on the sidewalk. We have the dance and other problems because the home is not conducted as it should be.

"I do not believe in scheduling outside events in the public schools or the colleges on week nights. The children should be at home. I do not mean, however, to criticise any one connected with the schools here. You have better schools than you deserve in many cases in consideration of the support you give them. But when you can get only fifty persons out to hear a debate and 400 to see a basketball game on the same evening, there is something wrong. The basketball is all right. I believe in athletics. I like everything from the marble game to the golf game. No one in town enjoys athletics more than I, but we need something more than athletics alone.

"I believe in having the children at home getting their lessons on the first four nights of the week. Let them get out on Friday and Saturday evenings if they want to, but keep them in the home the school nights.

"People do not give up things because they are bad but they give them up because other things are better. If you cannot have the best, then take the best you can get, do not try to get along without anything. For four months during my period in the army I attended a dance two or three times a week. Why? I knew that it was impossible to eliminate it. I knew that the men would dance regardless or else go to some other kind of amusement that I considered worse. I thought it better to go to the dance and do what I could to make it a clean dance than to go off to my tent and sulk. So I went to the dance. Then no one resented my being there. If I saw things that I thought to be off color, I called attention to it.

"Goodness is not emptiness, it is fullness. One is good because of what he does do and not because of what he does not do. I would institute the ideal of Christian service throughout the country. How many parents here tonight have in the past week held up examples such as Wilson, Harding and Lloyd George before their children?"

The seating capacity of the church was all taken and all the available space in the rear of the building was filled with folding chairs. At this seventy-five to one hundred persons were turned away.

Mr. Cooper ended his sermon with the following poem by Edgar A. Guest:

The miser thinks it's living to be
hoarding up his gold.
The soldier thinks it's living to be doing something bold.
The sailor calls it living to be tossed upon the sea
And upon this very subject no two men of us agree.
But I hold to the opinion, as I walk my way along,
That living's made of laughter and good fellowship and song.

Oh, the thing that I call living isn't gold or fame at all,
It's fellowship and sunshine and roses by the wall.
It's evenings glad with music and the hearth's fire that's ablaze,
And the joys that come to mortals in a thousand different ways.
It's laughter and contentment and the struggle for a goal,
It's everything that's needful in the shaping of a soul.

Many housewives are now buying baking powder under false impressions—they think they are getting 16 oz. or a full pound when they are really only getting 12 oz.—3/4 of a pound.

In order to keep the price down to compete with other brands, some manufacturers have reduced the contents of their large cans. If you don't look at the label—don't know exactly what you are getting when you buy these brands, you are apt to be 4 oz. or 1/4 of a pound short.

should not be true, it should at least challenge us upon this point. It is the duty of the parents to help the child to know God and the Bible in the home. How often is the family circle complete these days? What opportunity is being offered us in the home to maintain its sanctity?

"Discipline should be practiced in the home. I have known mothers who would criticise a school teacher because she, the teacher, could not discipline fifty boys, when the mother could not even discipline one in the home. Bad home government means bad school government. Respect and appreciation for law, is the need of the land. Lincoln says: 'No republic can long exist in peace and security without a deep and abiding respect for law.' We cannot emphasize the home life too much and no program must interfere with the home.

"We must never misinterpret the mission of the church. We stress social salvation today, and this is well, but even a good thing can be overdone. We should not think less in terms of social salvation but more in terms of personal salvation. It is good that Christian men and women should be interested in model tenements, public play houses, etc., but we must not neglect the individual in our zeal to help the crowd. If the individual trees are neglected what of the forest? The welfare of the whole depends absolutely upon the welfare of the unit. Our religion is a personal religion. If our social world is unChristian, it is because the persons within it are unChristian. 'If the fountain be pure the water will be pure.' The heart is the fountain and 'out of it are the issues of life.'

"The salvation of society comes back to the salvation of the individual. We are saved as individuals and not as masses or groups.

"This is the church's mission. If we mis-interpret it and spend our time, thought and effort on matters of less importance, the very foundations are endangered. Our social programs, amusements, etc., are only means to this great end, and to these I shall give my time in the next address."

Lowry's Letter

While Bill and the scribe were attending the Hardware and Implement Dealers' Convention at Kansas City a few days ago we picked up one of the finest lines of oil cook stoves we have ever seen. We have one in our east window now and would be glad to show the good features of it. It heats more quickly than others and over a greater surface. Fine for cooking a big steak.

Earl Cook is the owner of a new farm wagon, but he didn't tell us that he would loan it. You may have one too, if you wish.

Fred Wallace can drive his car in safety with his new chains. Remember we have them in all sizes.

Davis Bros. are making their windmill pump the water from two wells by the use of triangles. If you need any information about water equipment we can furnish it.

J. E. Crawford is equipping his car with the Alemite oiling system. It stops the squeaks in the springs and makes the oiling job a pleasure.

Mr. Atkinson, who recently joined the faculty at the State Teachers College is eating meals cooked on an oil stove purchased here. When you don't want to start a fire in the range, a match to the wick makes a quick heat.

The Samson two-row lister cultivator that Alfred Jones took home with him will eliminate the weeds, rapidly, in the good old summer time.

Loy Blanchard left town on high speed with a tractor and plow. He, too, is preparing for action when spring gets here.

A LIVE COON AT SKIDMORE.

Party of Men "Herded" One to Streets of Town.

A party of men roaming through the woods a mile and a half southeast of Skidmore yesterday afternoon discovered a raccoon. One of the party climbed a tree and punched him out of his hole, thirty feet from the ground. He jumped from it and was captured by those on the ground. The men pinned him down with forked sticks as he ran for the river, nearby, and then tied his legs. They then started for Skidmore but were destined to have trouble. Three times on the way Mr. Coon bit the cords that bound his legs, in two and was free again. Three times the captors succeeded in preventing him from getting away. The coon was exhibited on the streets and later placed in a tank at the rear of the Manchester & Dodds hardware store. It was said that the coon was to be turned loose this morning.

The members of the party were Geo. Manchester, John Ashbrook, Howard Money, Irvin Morehead, Allen Tracy and Charles Barrett, all of Skidmore, and Ellwood Barrett of Maryville.

Our Baby Lens

Our baby lens is not a baby lens on account of its size. In fact it is the largest lens we have. We call it our baby lens because we bought it especially for babies pictures.

We can take the baby's pictures in your own home, in home surroundings. We take them with such short exposures. (One-fifth or one-half of a second), that we get the natural expressions.

Another thing, we do no retouching which sometimes takes away something of the natural likeness. That's what makes our portraits "look like you."

If you do not know the kind of work we are doing we invite you to come to the BEE HIVE SHOE STORE and see it.

Our Equipment is at your service.
